Williamson County Public Library

Mission, Vision, and Technology Statement

Library Mission Statement:

Create a diverse and accessible atmosphere that provides windows to the past, pathways to the future, and enrichment of the community in the present.

Library Vision Statement:

Cultivate an environment for lifelong learning, growth, and connection.

Library Statement on Technology:

The Williamson County Public Library strives to continuously improve patron technology experiences, while providing staff with the best possible resources to meet or exceed community expectations.

Background

The Williamson County IT department manages the IT needs of the library, including the following: maintaining network infrastructure, purchasing licenses, upgrading network cabling, etc. Staff communicates with the IT department via a ticketing system to share technology needs and to initiate upgrades.

Library staff continuously evaluates the ILS, website, and general technology needs through daily use. The library currently uses the remotely hosted open source ILS, Koha. Issues regarding the ILS are addressed on a case by case basis via a ticketing system supported by ByWater Solutions. The library website was created and is supported by CivicPlus. The website is primarily overseen by the adult services manager, but each department and branch contribute to the content and updates.

The library is utilizing Envisionware products to manage multiple aspects of staff and patron utilized technology. The reference and branch staff use Envisionware to manage patron computer use. Envisionware based self-checkout stations are being utilized in Fairview, Nolensville, and at the main library.

Plan Evaluation

Mid-way through the fiscal year, the library director and Board of Trustees will review the technology plan. The evaluation will determine if the goals and objectives are being addressed and met as described.

The library director and Board of Trustees will review technology policies as required by the Tennessee State Public Library Standards.

Tennessee Library Standards: Tennessee Public Library Standards and (2018 Public Library Standards .pdf \(sostngovbuckets.s3.amazonaws.com\))

Technology Assessment

Technology assessment will be based upon age and need. Replacement of devices will not be tied to a timeline, but to the useful lifespan of the item itself. An addendum is included that notes the acquisition date for each inventoried device and its projected replacement date. (See addendum 2)

Professional Development

Tennessee State Library Standards require all staff to complete a specified number of training hours annually. As part of meeting the state requirements, staff will pursue and receive 3 hours of technology training per fiscal year

Availability of Funds

The Library receives funding from local, state, and federal sources. Williamson County Government is the primary source of funding. The Library receives approximately 1% of the County's total operational funds per fiscal year. The fiscal year budget begins on July 1 and ends on June 30. The portion of the library's operational budget appropriated specifically for technology is approximately $134,000 per year. Encompassed in our technology spending are our ILS support costs, database subscriptions, computer and printer upkeep, and phone and internet connectivity.

Williamson County Public library participates in a federally funded E-rate program established to assist schools and libraries with costs of internet connectivity. The goal of the program is “to subsidize the cost of internet by providing a discount,” allowing our system to access increased data speed at a reduced rate. The library plans to continue utilizing this program.

Each year the Tennessee State Library and Archives contributes to library funding through technology grants, which are federal funds distributed by the state. The grants generally address very specific needs, but are valuable in expanding our ability to provide upgraded technology to staff and patrons. The criteria of the grants change yearly, but the library will continue to utilize this resource.
